SEPARATE TRIAL DENIED BY JUDGE

Fields Must Appear with Two Others for Trial in Small Case

STARTS ON JUNE 20TH

Ed. Courtney and Ed. Kaufman, alleged fixers, and J. D. Fields, a member of the jury which acquitted Governor Small last summer, must go to trial together on charges of "conspiracy to interfere with the administration of justice." This is the technical language for charges of jury bribery.

Judge Robert K. Welsh of Rockford Tuesday swept the path for the trial clear by refusing to quash the indictments against the three men and by refusing to grant separate trials.

Trial was set for June 20, Judge Welsh refused from the bench on July 1. A conference of attorneys for both sides will be held here with Judge Welsh on June 11 to select a judge.

Five of the fourteen counts in the indictment were thrown out, leaving nine. The five quashed do not effect the main issue of the case.

According to State's Attorney A. V. Smith two were thrown out as being too general and the others because they were largely repetitions. The court promised Attorney William Scott Stewart that he would require the state to furnish a bill of particulars where the counts are indefinite.

"But I do not mean to say that they will be forced to turn over their evidence to you," the court added.

Attorney Eugene Runyard for Fields contended that his client had an unblemished reputation and that trying him jointly with Kaufman and Courtney would be prejudicial.

"I cannot agree," declared Judge Welsh. "I do not think a man of previous good reputation charged with conspiring with others not so fortunate is placed at a disadvantage. I can see where it is a powerful weapon for the defense in such a situation."

The name of Judge Edward Shurtliff, as well as that of Judge Harry Edwards, was suggested for the case.

The state wished to start June 11, believing it could get a jury in a week and finish in, time, to have Judge Welsh preside.

"I am not hankering to try the case," said the judge, "neither will I shrink it or try to dodge, but I can't be here after July 1."

OLD-FASHIONED COSTUME PARTY GIVEN AT STAR

At the last meeting of the Eastern Star a very nice program was arranged. The occasion called for an old-fashioned costume display. About 25 appeared in some very pretty and quaint dress, some of the periods of our grandmothers and others still further back. Dr. Roy Williams, Mr. Shultis, Mr. George Garland and Mr. Cross, acted as judges. Mrs. Alice Haynes and Mrs. Charles Viegol were awarded first honors. Mrs. Haynes appearing in a very beautiful dress imported from Paris and Mrs. Viegol wore a creation of the early 60's. Mrs. Nina Brook and Mrs. Sherman Perlis were the second couple to share honors. Mrs. Brook wearing a beautiful quaint old dress of the 70's, with a bonnet to match and Mrs. Perlis appearing in a beautiful dress of the 80's. On a whole the occasion was a great success and much credit is due the committee in charge, Miss Elizabeth Webb, Mrs. Nina Brook and Miss Leonella Taylor. Refreshments were served and all declared a wonderful time.

GOOD CLEAN LABOR

"I hear, Si, that while ye were in the city ye took up this here gold. How'd ye like it?"

"Wall, le'able. It's lottle harder than hoein' corn an' a lottle easier than diggin' potatoes."

Mother: "What! You've bee fightin' with that boy across the street again!"

Son: "No, maw, he woun't fight any more. I had to go into the ad at block for this one."

FOURTH GRADERS GIVE PLAY FOR PARENT-TEACHERS

The meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association Friday night proved very interesting. The little playlet given by the children of the fourth grade under the direction of Miss McMillin entitled "The Enchanted Garden" was greatly appreciated.

The election of officers was held for the coming year. Mrs. John Woodhead was elected president, Mrs. Rosling vice-president, Mr. McDougall secretary, Mrs. Tanowski treasurer, Mrs. Garland chairman of program committee, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Hoffman and Mrs. McGee serving committees. Refreshments were served.

ZION BROADCASTING STATION GIVES FIRST PROGRAM JUNE 4

The work on the Zion broadcasting station is now completed, and is the largest outfit that the government will allow, there being two towers of 150 feet, or 234 feet above the level of Lake Michigan. The first official program will be broadcasted on June 24. It is the intention of Zion to send out the Zion Gospel services and addresses. The Zion band and choir will also take a big part in the outgoing features. The station will be known as WCBD.

Hartford Giants Play Antioch Here Sunday

Antioch defeated the North Chicago Nationals Sunday in a lifeless game 10-1. The first inning was the only inning when Jesse Davison was in the least bit of trouble, but after one run was scored and three men were on, Jesse lightened up and retired the next three men in the strike out route.

Antioch, in their half of the first went after the diminutive left handed star Joey Adams and pounded him for five hits and six runs. Kern, the first man up, walked; Elbert got to first safely when his sacrifice hit was fumbled. Brankie struck out. Bailey singled through second, scoring Kern and Elbert. Rogolia struck out, W. Stanzack walked. F. Stanzack was hit by pitched ball. Kingsley slammed one to the left center outfield for three bases, scoring the two Stanzacks. Davison duplicated Kingsley's clout to right center, stopping on second. Kern hit safely. Elbert struck out.

The balance of the game was a pitchers' game. Davison apparently having an easy time of it. Adams pitched fairly good ball, although touched up for nine hits after the first inning, but managed to keep them pretty well distributed.

Both pitchers allowed five bases on balls, and Adams registered 12 strike out while Davison had eleven. Davison kept the hits down to six, while Adams was hit safely fifteen times.

F. Stanzack's catch in right in the fifth was a nice piece of work and the double play completed by Antioch was real stuff.

The little incident on third base between one of the Antioch players and the umpire does not help baseball any and criticism was heard when that player was not removed from the game.

The strong colored team of Chicago, the Hartford Giants, will be Antioch's opponents Sunday. These colored boys are not only baseball players, but are a source of great amusement to the fans. If you want some real entertainment Sunday get out to the ball park by 2:15.

CO-OP MARKETING BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE

The Cooperative marketing bill was passed by the House at Springfield Tuesday, 99 to 47. It now returns to the Senate, where the House amendments will be put to a vote of concurrence. Governor Small has indicated he will approve the bill. Chicago members formed the bulk of the opposition, only one of the 47 negative votes being cast by a downstate representative.

Grade School Pupils to Have Picnic Friday

All the children of the grade school will be off to a picnic Friday under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers' association.

Connie Rothe of Sylvan Beach is turning his spacious grounds and buildings over to the kids for that day.

The children and parents will meet at the grade school at 10 o'clock, not later, and with the kindness of any parent who can possibly spare an automobile, truck, hay rack or anything on wheels, the kids will be transported to the grounds.

The association was very successful in getting donations from the merchants. Mr. Reeves is supplying the ice cream and cones, Messrs. Powles, Kettling and Roesschlein the vegetables, and with the other donations prizes for the kids will be purchased.

There's going to be all kinds of games and races and best of all there is going to be a whole string of good prizes for the best athletes. The teachers of the grade school will have charge of all the games, and the committee in charge of the picnic is: Mrs. Woodhead, Mrs. Pabowski, Mrs. Hoffman, Mrs. Wertz, Mrs. Rosling, Mrs. Ernest Brook, Mrs. John Brogan, Mrs. Bacon, Mrs. Roesschlein, Mrs. Barthel and Mrs. Henry Herman.

Campfire Girls

Last week the Camp Fire Girls went to Van Patten's woods to hold their meeting.

Many birds and wild flowers were identified with the help of bird and flower guide books.

Each girl present earned an honor by building and properly extinguishing three types of camp fires.

The ceremonial was used to formally admit Mona Dibble as a member.

The following is the complete list of twenty girls who now belong:

Dorothy Anderson, Gladys Davis, Mary Herman, Irma Hanke, Ruth Hanke, Dorothy Brogan, Myrtle Peterson, Lois King, Agnes Peterson, Georgia Bacon, Adella Reutner, Hazel Norman, Hilma Rosling, Roberta Lewis, Anna Simonsen, Louise Simonsen, Edna Verier, Mona Dibble, Helen Van Deusen, Margaret Wagner, Mrs. Bright, guardian; Mrs. Van Deusen, assistant guardian.

Since it is a rule that no guardian have more than twenty girls in one camp, no more can be admitted until a vacancy occurs.

However other camp fires can be started and we hope there will be, for a number of girls have been disappointed in not being able to join.

There will be no meeting this week, but the meetings will be in charge of the assistant guardian during the absence of the guardian.

Tuberculosis Demonstration in Waukegan

Good crowd of 500 or more attended the big demonstration at Waukegan last Saturday. Farmers from every part of the county were there making a good representation. Six head of cattle were slaughtered. Of these, three were found to have the tubercular lesions so that as to meat the entire carcasses including the condemned carcasses, were thoroughly treated with kerosene and the remains hauled off and tanked as well as the premises thoroughly cleaned. The information of the public, it should be understood that at all public slaughter houses, all meats are thoroughly inspected by agents of the U. S. Government and only clean meats free from disease are allowed to be sold.

All the cattle showed the disease and milk from them would be dangerous to use now.

Two hens from the flock of E. Elsbury showed the disease on a generalized condition. All through the organs of the body, also on one hen belonging to D. H. Minto.

That Lake county should immediately take steps to not only prevent the spread of the disease, but eradicate it from our herds. On the county area plan as over 25 counties in Illinois are now doing was the unanimous feeling of the afternoon meeting at the armory as expressed by a resolution passed. The meeting was representative and well attended.

H. R. Davidson, of the Chicago Live Stock Exchange in a clear and forceful way told of the increase in this disease, of how it had increased in hogs several hundred percent in ten years. He showed just how the state government paid indemnity for reacting cattle. This amounts to 2-3 of the difference between the salvage value of a reacting animal and the appraisal value. He also showed how packers discriminated in the prices they paid for livestock coming from infected counties. The districts that have a heavy infection from tuberculosis are well known to packers and cattle from Northern Illinois are often cut $1.50 cwt. because they are almost certain to have many animals that will be condemned.

Dr. J. J. Lintner of Chicago, who is in charge of the eradication work for Illinois gave a fine talk on the progress of the work. He also clearly explained the relation of T. B. in livestock to the public health. He cited many conclusive cases which left no doubt as to the fact that as he said, 1-3 of all T. B. in people is traced finally to the use of milk from diseased cattle. The case of a baby found to have a bad case of intestinal tuberculosis was explained, and found to have come from using milk from a badly diseased cow. He stated there could not have been any other cause possible as the parents of the child were tested and found free from T. B.

Dr. Lintner dwelt on this side of the matter because one or two professional folks in Waukegan evidently did not believe disease in cows had any effect on public health. The case of a Lake county farmer's family using the milk and butter of a cow that finally died from T. B. was also mentioned. All the members of that family except the mother died from that disease.

Dr. Lintner also dwelt on the disadvantage our progressive breeders of dairy cattle were working under because buyers avoided our section of the country. The demonstration and meeting was strong evidence of the fact that the farmers of the county are anxious to have the supervisors vote to put the county on the aron plan for T. B. testing.

HEBRON MILL LEASED

The Hachey of Antioch, has leased the mill and took possession. Mr. Pachey is an experienced miller and comes highly recommended and comes highly recommended to say that he will appreciate the confidence has enjoyed in the past to the mill leased the property and T. Pachey term of two years.

Fox Lake Road Deplorable

Considerable complaint is being heard on road conditions around Antioch, especially the Fox Lake road. With traffic into Antioch being detoured via this road it is time something was done on this apology of a highway.

EIGHTEEN GRADUATE AT A. T. H. S.

Entire Class Presented with Diplomas Monday Evening

DR. GANFIELD SPEAKER

The five hundred people who attended the High School Graduating exercises Monday night were unanimous in their praise for the address of the evening given by Dr. Ganfield, of the evening given by Dr. Ganfield, president of Carroll College. This was undoubtedly the best commencement address ever given here and an attempt will be made to have him return at some future time.

Dr. Ganfield has a commanding personality. This together with the expert manner in which he handled his subject: "We Know More Than the Ancients" completely captivated his audience.

The music was furnished by the high school orchestra and several selections were rendered by the Girl's Glee Club. Rev. S. E. Pollock administered the Invocation and the Benediction.

F. W. Hatch presented diplomas to the entire class which consisted of Edwin S. Reutner, Mabel Van Deusen, Irving B. Elms, Vera Leone Nelsen, Clarence F. Nyder, Ruth Kottelhut, Mary E. Runyard, Wesley O. Wertz, Elynore E. Dodge, Gordon P. Ames, Antoinette Smart, Lucile G. Wells, George W. Keulman, Marjorie M. Welsh, Anna Kret, Howard E. Spafford, Helen A. Gray, Victor G. Down. Mabel Van Deusen was chosen class president and is the youngest member of the graduates and received the most credits during the year. Lucile Wells had the highest average for the year and Anna Kret second highest.

HICKORY

Mr. and Mrs. Al Swensen and son and Howard Gonyo spent Wednesday of last week at Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harrison of Waukegan visited at the D. W. Pullen home Sunday afternoon.

The ladies of the Hickory Cemetery Society are planning on giving an ice cream social in the near future, watch for the date.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gonyo entertained company from North Chicago one day last week.

Curtis Wells is under the doctor's care with an infection in his arm.

Mrs. C. L. Van Patten entertained company last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Webb and Howard of Gages Lake called at A. T. Sayagosa last week Wednesday.

Hickory school is closing Wednesday of this week for the summer vacation. Miss Drom will return next year.

RESORT THIEVES AT WORK AGAIN

Sunday afternoon it was discovered that thieves during the past week had entered Camp Independent, a summer home of Mrs. John F. Schmitt at Hooker Lake, near Salem, and looted the place of equipment left there for storage. An Evinrude motor and other personal property are listed as missing. It is believed that the robbery took place during the past week as a visit to the camp less than two weeks ago had failed to reveal anything missing.

ELECTRICAL STORM OF SUNDAY DOES DAMAGE

Antioch was visited Sunday evening by one of the most severe electrical storms in recent years, lasting more than four hours. Trevor and eyes to the north witnessed a large fire doing much property damage. No horses were hurt, though. Many damage was done to the property of farmers and some property was damaged.

THE LIGHT OF WESTERN STARS

A Romance

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Arriving at the lonely little railroad station of El Cajon, New Mexico, Madeline Hammond, New York girl, finds no one to meet her. While in the waiting room a drunken cowboy enters, asks if she is married, and departs, leaving her terrified. He returns with a priest, who goes through some sort of ceremony, and the cowboy forces her to say "Si." Asking her name and learning her identity the cowboy seems dazed. In a shooting scrape outside the room a Mexican is killed. The cowboy lets a girl, "Bonita," take his horse and escape, then conducts Madeline to Florence Kingsley, friend of her brother.

CHAPTER II.—Florence welcomes her, learns her story, and dismisses the cowboy, Gene Stewart. Next day Alfred Hammond, Madeline's brother, takes Stewart to task. Madeline exonerates him of any wrong intent.

CHAPTER III.—Alfred, scion of a wealthy family, had been dismamed from his home because of his dissipation. Madeline sees that the West has redeemed him. She meets Stillwell, Alf's employer, typical western ranchman. Madeline learns Stewart has gone over the border.

CHAPTER IV

A Ride From Sunrise to Sunset.

Next morning, when Madeline was aroused by her brother, it was not yet daybreak; the air chilled her, and in the gray gloom she had to feel around for matches and lamp. Her usual languid manner vanished at a touch of the cold water. Presently, when

"Well, if I haven't some color!" She exclaimed.

Alfred knocked on her door and said he was leaving a pitcher of hot water outside, she replied, with chattering teeth, "Thank you, but I don't need any now." She found it necessary, however, to warm her numb fingers before she could fasten hooks and buttons. And when she was dressed she marked in the dim mirror that there were tinges of red in her cheeks.

"Well, if I haven't some color!" she exclaimed.

Breakfast waited for her in the dining-room. The sisters ate with her. Madeline quickly caught the feeling of brisk action that seemed to be in the air. Then Alfred came stamping in.

"Majesty, here's where you get the real thing," he announced, merrily. "We're rushing you off, I'm sorry to say; but we must hustle back to the ranch. The fall round-up begins tomorrow. You will ride in the buckboard with Florence and Stillwell. I'll ride on ahead with the boys and fix up a little for you at the ranch. It's a long ride out—nearly fifty miles by wagon-road. Flo, don't forget a couple of robes. Wrap her up well. And hustle getting ready. We're waiting."

A little later, when Madeline went out with Florence, the gray gloom was lightning. Horses were clamping bits and pounding gravel.

"Mawwlin' Miss Majesty," said Stillwell, gruffly, from the front seat of a high vehicle.

Alfred bundled her up into the back seat, and Florence after her, and wrapped them with robes. Then he mounted his horse and started off.

As Madeline gazed about her and listened to her companions, the sun rose higher and grew warmer and soared and grew hot; the horses held tirelessly to their steady trot, and mile after mile of rolling land slipped by.

From the top of a ridge Madeline saw down into a hollow where a few of the cowboys had stopped and were sitting round a fire, evidently busy at the noonday meal. Their horses were feeding on the long, gray grass.

"Wal, smell of that burnin' grease wood makes my mouth water," said Stillwell. "I'm sure hungry. It's noon hyar an' let the horses have a long pull to the ranch," observed

During lunch-time Madeline manifestly that she was an object of great interest to them, and was amused to see that a glance their way caused them painful embarrassment. They were grown men—one of whom had white hair—yet they acted like boys caught in the act of stealing a forbidden look at a pretty girl.

She returned the

"Cowboys are sure all flirts," said Florence, as if stating an uninteresting fact. But Madeline detected a merry twinkle in her clear eyes. The cowboys heard, and the effect upon them was magical. They fell to shamed confusion and to hurried useless tasks.

"Haw, haw!" roared Stillwell. "Florence, you jest hit the nail on the head. Cowboys are all plumb flirts. I was wonderin' why them boys nooned hyar. This ain't no place to noon. Ain't no grazin' or wood with burnin' or nuthin'."

Them boys jest held up, throwed the pocks an' waited fer us. It ain't no surprisin' fer Booby an' Ned—they're young an' colish—but Nels there, why, he's old enough to be the paw of both you girls. It sure is amazin' strange."

A silence ensued. The white-haired cowboy, Nels, fussed aimlessly over the campfire, and then straightened up with a very red face.

"Bill, you're a dog-gone liar," he said. "I reckon I won't stand to be classed with Booby an' Ned. There ain't no cowboy on this range that's more appreciatin' of the ladies than me, but I shore ain't ridin' out of my way. I reckon I hev enough ridin' to do. Now, Bill, if you've sesh dog-gone good eyes maybe you seen somethin' on the way out?"

"Nels, I hev'n't seen nothin'," he replied, bluntly.

"Jest take a squint at these hoss tracks," said Nels, and he drew Stillwell a few paces aside and pointed to large hoofprints in the dust. "I reckon you know the hoss that made them?"

"Gene Stewart's roan, or I'm a son-of-a-gun!" exclaimed Stillwell, and he dropped heavily to his knees and began to scrutinize the tracks. Nels, who ever was straddlin' Stewart's hoss met somebody. An' they hauled up a bit, but didn't git down."

"Tolerable good for you, Bill, the reasonin'," replied the cowboy. "I reckon you know what hoss made the other tracks?"

"I'm thinkin' hard, but I ain't sure." "It was Danny Malms' brone."

"How do you know that?" demanded Stillwell, sharply.

"Bill, the left front foot of that little hoss always wears a shoe that sets crooked. Any of the boys can tell you. I'd know that track if I was blind."

"Nels, you don't think the boy's sloped with that little lussy, Bonita?" "Bill, he shore was sweet on Bonita, same as Gene was, an' Ed Linton before he got engaged, an' all the boys. She's shore chain-shtatin', that little black-eyed devil. Danny might hev sloped with her all right. Danny was held up on the way to town, an' then in the shame of it he got drunk. But he'll show up soon."

"Wal, maybe you an' the boys are right. I believe you are. Nels, there ain't no doubt on earth about who was ridin' Stewart's hoss?"

"That's as plain as the hoss' tracks." "Wal, it's all amazin' strange. It beats me. I wish the boys would ease up on drinkin'. I was pretty fond of Danny an' Gene. I'm afraid Gene's done fer, sure. If he crosses the border where he can fight it won't take long for him to get plugged. I guess I'm gettin' old. I don't stand things like I used to."

"Bill, I reckon I'd better hit the Pelonullo trail. Maybe I can find Danny."

"I reckon you had, Nels," replied Stillwell. "But don't take more'n a couple of days. We can't do much on the round-up without you. I'm short of boys."

That ended the conversation. Stillwell immediately began to hitch up his team, and the cowboys went out to fetch their strayed horses. Madeline had been curiously interested, and she saw that Florence knew it.

"Things happen, Miss Hammond," she said, soberly, almost sadly.

Madeline thought. And then straightway Florence began brightly to hum a tune and to busy herself repackaging what was left of the lunch. Madeline suddenly conceived a strong liking for this Western girl, bowling respect for this Western girl, bowling

Soon they were once more riding along the road down a to climb a cline, and then they began to climb long ridge that lay flat hidden what lay beyond to the sun and rather throned restricted view.

Presently they got out and walked ascent the team. During this long lead fatigue claimed Madeline, and she dozed off. When she opened her eyes, she found the foothills and the air was growing chilly. Stillwell had returned to driving-seat and was chuckling to horses. Shadows crept up out of hollows.

"Wal, Flo," said Stillwell, "I reckon we'd better hev the rest of that there lunch before dark."

"You didn't leave much of it," laughed Florence, as she produced the basket from under the seat.

While they ate, the short twilight shaded and gloom filled the hollows. Madeline was glad to have the robes close around her and to lean against Florence. There were drowsy spells in which she had a feeling of where she was, and these were disturbed by the jolt of wheels over a rough place. Then came a blank interval, short or long, which ended in a more violent lurch of the buckboard. Madeline awoke to find her head on Florence's shoulder. She sat up laughing and apologizing for her laziness. Florence assured her they would soon reach the ranch.

CHAPTER V

The Round-Up.

It was a crackling and roaring of fire that awakened Madeline next morning, and the first thing she saw was a huge stone fireplace in which lay a bundle of blazing sticks. Some one had kindled a fire while she slept. For a moment, the curious sensation of being lost returned to her. She just dimly remembered reaching the ranch and being taken into a huge house and a huge, dimly lighted room. And it seemed to her that she had gone to sleep at once, and had awakened without remembering how she had gotten to bed.

With a knock on the door and a cheerful greeting, Florence entered, carrying steaming hot water.

"Good mawnin', Miss Hammond. Hope you slept well. You sure were tired last night. I imagine you'll find this old ranch-house as cold as a barn. I'll warm up directly. Alf's gone with the boys and Bill. We're to ride down on the range after a while when your baggage comes. Breakfast will be ready soon, and after that we'll look about this place."

Madeline was charmed with the old Spanish house, and the more she saw of it the more she thought what a delightful home it could be made. All the doors opened into a courtyard, or patio, as Florence called it. The house was low, in the shape of a rectangle, and so immense in size that Madeline wondered if it had been a Spanish barracks. Florence led the way out on a porch and waved a hand at a vast, colored void. "That's what Bill likes," she said.

At first Madeline could not tell what was sky and what was land. The immensity of the scene stunned her faculties of conception. She sat down in one of the old rocking-chairs and looked and looked, and knew that she was not grasping the reality of what stretched wondrously before her.

"We're up at the edge of the foothills," Florence said. "I'll sure take you a little while to get used to being up high and seeing so much. That's the secret—we're up high, the air is clear, and there's the whole bare world beneath us. Here—see that cloud of dust down in the valley? It's the round-up. The boys are there, and the cattle. Wait, I'll get the glasses."

"The round-up! I want to know all about it—to see it," declared Madeline. "Please tell me what it means, what it's for, and then take me down there."

"I'll sure open your eyes, Miss Hammond. I'm glad you care to know. Your brother would have made a big success in this cattle business if it hadn't been for crooked work by rival ranchers. He'll make it yet, in spite of them."

"Indeed he shall," replied Madeline. "But tell me, please, all about the round-up."

"Well, in the first place, every cattleman has to have a brand to identify his stock. Without it no cattleman, nor half a hundred cowboys, if he had so many, could ever recognize all the cattle in a big herd. There are all fences on our ranges. They are all open to everybody. Every year we have two big round-ups, but the boys do some branding all the year. A calf should be branded as soon as it's found. This is a safeguard against cattle-thieves. We don't have the rustling of herds and bunches of cattle like we used to."

"We have our big round-up in the fall, when there's plenty of grass and water, and all the riding-stock as well as the cattle are in fine shape. The cattle in the valley meet with their cowboys and drive in all fands and they can find. Then they drive it out each man's herd, go on up or toward home. Then a another camp, down the valley, if cattle. It takes weeks."

For Madeline's part of the time by, with the porch gazing out over that spent angling vista. At noon a cowboy drove up with her trunk. Then she Florence helped the Mexican woman get lunch Madeline unpacked part of her effects and got out things for which she would have immediate need. After lunch she changed her dress for a riding-habit and, going outside, found Florence waiting with the horses.

As Madeline rode along she made good use of her eyes. The soil was sandy and porous, and she understood why the rain and water from the few springs disappeared so quickly. What surprised her was the fact that, though she and Florence had seemed to be riding quite awhile, they had apparently not drawn any closer to the round-up. The slope of the valley was noticeable after some miles had been traversed.

Gradually black dots enlarged and assumed shape of cattle and horses moving round a dusty patch. In another half-hour Madeline rode, she scene of action. A roar of trampling hoofs filled her ears. The lines of marching cattle had merged into a great, moving herd half obscured by dust.

The bawling and bellowing, the crackling of horns and pounding of hoofs, the dusty whirl of cattle, and the flying cowboys disconcerted Madeline and frightened her a little.

"Look, Miss Hammond, there's Don Carlos!" said Florence. "Look at that black horse!"

Madeline saw a dark-faced Mexican riding by. He was too far away for her to distinguish his features, but he reminded her of an Italian brigand. He bestrode a magnificent horse.

Stillwell rode up to the girls then and greeted them in his big voice.

"Right in the thick of it, hey? Wal, that's sure fine. I'm glad to see, Miss Majesty, that you ain't afraid of a little dust or smell of burnin' hide an' hair."

Madeline's brother joined the group, evidently in search of Stillwell. "Bill, Nels just rode in," he said.

"Good! Any news of Danny Malms?"

"No, Nels said he lost the trail when he got on hard ground."

"Wal, wal. Say, Alf, your sister is sure takin' to the round-up. An' the boys are gettin' wise. See that sun-of-a-gun Ambrose cuttin' capers all around. He'll sure do his prettiest. Ambrose is a liddle's man, he thinks."

The two men and Florence joined in a little pleasant teasing of Madeline, and drew her attention to what appeared to be really unnecessary feats of horsemanship all made in her vicinity. The cowboys evinced their interest in covert glances while recalling a lasso or while passing to and fro. It was all too serious for Madeline to be amused at that moment. She did not care to talk. She sat her horse and watched.

HARTFORD TIRE and TUBE

CAR owners who give the Hartford Cord a trial invariably become steady Hartford customers. They don't find any tires that look better on their cars or that give a better money's worth.

The Hartford "H" Tread Fabric won its place with light car owners long before most of the tires of the present day were heard of—both are built to sustain a quarter century's reputation. There is a Hartford Dealer near you. Look him up.

10 YEARS AVERAGE AGE OF MILK COWS SLAUGHTERED

The average age of milk cows when slaughtered for beef is 10 years and the price realized for such cows is about one-half the price brought by younger cows sold for milking purposes, according to a nation-wide investigation of present conditions made this year by the United States Department of Agriculture.

State averages of the age at which cows are sold for slaughter were remarkably uniform, there being no State with an average under 9 years and no State with an average over 11 years. States showing an average of 11 years were Maryland, West Virginia, Florida, Wisconsin, Louisiana, Utah, and Nevada. States with an average of 9 years were New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama.

In the early spring this year, when the survey was made, milk cows showed an average sale price of $32 per head when sold for slaughter, or about 50 per cent of the average price of $63 for cows sold at the same time for milking purposes.

The Church on the Hill

Next Sunday is children's day and appropriate services will be held at the church at 10:30. There will be no Sunday school, but this service instead of that and the preaching service. Babies will be presented for baptism at this service, and it will be a real children's service.

On the following day, June 11th, the daily vacation Bible school will begin with two competent teachers in charge. Children from the ages of 5 to 12 will be cared for from 9 to 11:30 each day of the two weeks except Saturday and Sunday. We are sure it will be a very profitable time for the children.

"THE CHRISTIAN" AT CRYSTAL ON SATURDAY

Sir Hall Caine's greatest masterpiece, "The Christian," comes to the Crystal Saturday June 9.

At last the most famous love story of history comes to the screen in a blaze of power and glory. All the world has been thrilled by the story of the man who forsook the call of religion for the lure of a fascinating stage beauty. Millions of people in every corner of the globe have called the love drama of John Storm and Glory Quayle the most gripping and absorbing narrative of man's enslavement to a woman's charms that humanity has ever known. And now it has been brought to the screen in a mammoth production staged in England and America. The great scenes on England's glorious Isle of Man, the tremendous spectacle at the famous Epsom Downs races, the colossal mob riots in historic Trafalgar Square, the thrilling fights in London's darkest slums are only a few of the dramatic moments that set this stupendous film apart from all others as the year's biggest photoplay sensation. Here at last is the picture that the world has been waiting to see.

Comfort and financial security were attained last year by a Colorado woman through her poultry keeping, although the main farm crop was almost a failure. The wheat crop was only 90 bushels and the barley 30, besides a small amount of corn to be fed to the live stock. A report received by the United States department of agriculture states that after culling her flock and selling the culled for $156 this woman bought lumber to enlarge the poultry house so as to have more space for the pullets retained. The eggs and chickens sold brought $597.20, which was sufficient to pay the annual taxes, to pay the interest on money borrowed for the farm, build the poultry house, add a new room to their tar-paper house, and finish the inside of two rooms. This enabled the family to have a cozy, warm, three-room house, which was much more comfortable than the one room and lean-to kitchen they had had before.

WHERE TWO IS A CROWD

"Rastus say Pahson Brown done ketch him in Farmer Smith's chicken coop."

"M-m, boy! Don't Rastus feel 'shamed'?"

"Nossuh. De pahson am de one feel 'shame. He kain't 'plain how come he done ketch Rastus dar."

VERSED IN VAMPS

Mother: "How did my little daughter come out in the intelligent test?"

Teacher: "Not so badly. Her real age is twelve and we find she has a mental age of ten. However, her cinema age is a sophisticated forty-two."

IMMUNITY

Sister: "Johnny is swearin' somethin' terrible at me in whispers."

Mother: "Johnny! You go right up stairs and wash your mouth out with soap."

Johnny: "It's no use, mamma. I've been eatin' soap for half an hour just so I could do this."

POSSIBLE EXPLANATION

Mr. Newhobby: "Of course, dear, it's only a rough idea of mine, but don't you think it's possible there was such a thing as a typographical error in that cookery manual of yours."

IN BAD TASTE

STATE URGED TO EXPEDITE BUILDING OF MAIN ROADS

The principal highways of every state should be constructed as rapidly as the available supply of labor and materials permits. They should be constructed and maintained by the state highway departments and they should be paid for by the people of the states as a whole, according to Thomas H. Macdonald, chief of the bureau of public roads, United States department of agriculture.

Mr. Macdonald says that actual road tests have shown that the annual saving in gasoline alone on the more important roads will, in some instances, more than pay the yearly cost of such roads, including a proper distribution of the first cost. The public pays for good roads whether it holds them or not. This fact alone, without regard to the increased need for highway transportation to supplement the railroads, the saving in wear and tear on vehicles, and the social, recreational, and educational advantages of good roads in rural sections, Mr. Macdonald says, should cause the States to proceed with their improvement of their main roads as fast as physical limitations permit.

The burden of building and maintaining the main state roads must be shouldered by the state, in Mr. Macdonald's opinion. It is not fair to expect a county to provide for the construction and upkeep of the main state roads within its borders when, as is generally the case, the traffic on such roads comes in greater part from outside of the county. The attempt to finance the improvement of such roads has been the means of bringing a good many counties to the point where they are not able to properly provide for the feeder roads, which should be their principal concern, because their credit is tied up in a relatively short mileage of high-

Last Sunday was the first Sunday after Trinity, and the first official service and sermon of Mr. Brock was held at that time. Mr. Brock took for his text, "Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come." This is the key note of the Trinity season and it is taken from the Book of the Revelation, of St. John the Divine, wherein we get a picture and a taste of the worship that is continually going on in heaven. Many people who often wonder why there should be ritual and ceremonial in the church seem to be ignorant of the fact that the Bible is full of ritual and ceremonial from the beginning to the end. The same people claim the Bible as the supreme authority. Ritual and ceremonial are certainly Biblical and in all nations and races there has always been much of them. What the soul craves for is worship, and this craving is satisfied by the services of the church. Worship is always idealistic and elevates us from the commonplace to the realms of celestial glory. We all need such an uplift once in a while. There is nothing more beautiful nor more elevating than the corporate worship of the church.

Next Sunday is the second Sunday after Trinity, and at that time there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at 8:00 by Father Gwyn of Libertyville. At this service Mr. Brock will act as deacon for the first time in administering the eucharist, and all the communicants of the church are urged to be present at this time. At 9:45 the church school session will be held as usual, and at 11:00 morning prayer and holy baptism. It was expected that there would be a baptism last Sunday, but that baptism has been postponed until next Sunday.

This administration of baptism will be the first official act of Mr. Brock. The importance of baptism should never be minimized, and it should not be postponed too long. St. John tells us that except a man be born of water and the spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God. We should all be on the safe side.

A Simple Rule.

When, after his death, a sale was made of the effects of Beerhuave of Lelden, a book was offered as containing in it a synopsis of his medical learning. The eager purchaser found in it simply these words: "Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the body open, the digestion regular, and a fig for doctors."

Following Tradition.

How many things we do, simply because our forefathers have done them, or those around us do them. Break away from traditions. Ask yourself whether a thing is right or wrong, logical or illogical, reasonable or otherwise, and then do it—or don't do it.

Yew Among Long-Lived Trees.

It is of interest to note that yews of indefinite growth by nature never die, except by a violent death. This extraordinary length of life in the world of trees, savoring somewhat of the perpetual, is shared also by the vine, olive and fig tree.

"Fourth Party" in England.

The "Fourth party" was a small group or clique of conservatives in the English house of commons, headed by Lord Randolph Churchill, who made themselves especially obnoxious to Mr. Gladstone in the years 1883-84.

Mr. Macdonald says that actual road tests have shown that the annual saving in gasoline alone on the more important roads will, in some instances, more than pay the yearly cost of such roads, including a proper distribution of the first cost. The public pays for good roads whether it holds them or not. This fact alone, without regard to the increased need for highway transportation to supplement the railroads, the saving in wear and tear on vehicles, and the social, recreational, and educational advantages of good roads in rural sections, Mr. Macdonald says, should cause the States to proceed with their improvement of their main roads as fast as physical limitations permit.

The burden of building and maintaining the main state roads must be shouldered by the state, in Mr. Macdonald's opinion. It is not fair to expect a county to provide for the construction and upkeep of the main state roads within its borders when, as is generally the case, the traffic on such roads comes in greater part from outside of the county. The attempt to finance the improvement of such roads has been the means of bringing a good many counties to the point where they are not able to properly provide for the feeder roads, which should be their principal concern, because their credit is tied up in a relatively short mileage of high-

We Handle 20,000,000 "Toll Calls" Every Year

THOUSANDS of these are made on the "station-to-station" basis, that is, the calling party asks only for the number of the called telephone or gives the name and address of the called subscriber without designating a particular person.

It is the quickest service and it saves you about 20 per cent.

In many cases the person you want will answer or is immediately available; if not, you can often deal satisfactorily with someone else.

"Long Distance" will be glad to tell you more about this time and money saving service.

"Station-to-station" long distance calls meet almost every requirement and the day rates are about 20% lower than for "person-to-person" calls. Evening rates are about 50% and night rates 75% lower than day rates for "station-to-station" calls, but no rate is reduced below 25 cents. The Sunday evening services for a few weeks will be devoted to a careful study of the Ten Commandments. Everybody is cordially invited to come and study the Ten Commandments with us—and help us obey them.

Children's Day program the coming Sunday morning at 10:45. Parents may bring their children of any age for baptism at that hour.

Some new faces in Sunday school last Sunday. Let all the teachers be on the look out every day for new pupils—and especially watching over the old ones that none of them be lost to the class or be unnecessarily absent.

Last Sunday morning the discourse brought in strong relief what is the final objective of the world-wide warfare of all the ages between God and Satan, namely the possession of the heart of humanity. This warfare, waged through all the ages, has had multitudes of battles and campaigns.

flights for liberty, for justice, for purity, for order, for all manner of good causes; but underneath every campaign and every battle fought through the ages between these two great armies, the one great objective has been to decide whether the hearts of men shall finally be fixed on God, or alienated from Him. Christ said the one commandment for all men which is the basis of everything else is "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul and with all thy mind." Thus, the one thing God seeks above all and beneath all the in all and through all, is the love of every human heart. This He will have at any cost, even to the death of The Son of God. And Satan's unrelenting purpose is to prevent that very thing. It matters not to Satan what men's hearts are set on, just so they are not set on God. Satan's plan is they must be alienated from God whatever the cost. So the battle wages. Every one of us is under compulsion to line up on one side or the other. Either actually take time and energy each day to pray through to the clear realization we have found. God and His holy love, so that we love Him in very truth and feel it in our hearts, or else we are found fighting on Satan's side in the great world war of the ages. And we are sure to forget or neglect this unless we have regular times for prayer each day.

CHEESE LAGS IN INCREASED USE OF DAIRY PRODUCTS

While the consumption of dairy products in the United States is increasing, there is still room for dairy interests to expand through creating an increase in the consumption of cheese, says the United States department of agriculture. Although the American people are large eaters of butter compared with European peoples, they consume relatively small amounts of cheese. The consumption of cheese is approximately 3.8 pounds per person, while in some European countries the consumption is four or five times this amount. Cheese of the American Cheddar type is chiefly manufactured in this country, but there is a demand for cheese of foreign varieties, especially by persons who have come from foreign countries. Before the war more than 60,000,000 pounds of cheese, or approximately one-fifth as much as was produced of all varieties in this country, was imported annually.

Increasing the consumption of the cheese offers large opportunities for the development of the dairy industry. If the people of this country would consume as much cheese per capita as the Dane, the Englishman, the Hollander, the German, or the Frenchman or half as much as the Swiss, it would create a market for 9,000,000,000 pounds of milk more than is required at the present time.

Rats, Cats, Farmers and Wage Earners

Once upon a time a Texas cow man who had gone busted bucking the beef trust conceived a bright idea. While on one of his annual pilgrimages to Bulltown (meaning Chicago) he had observed the high price of furs exhibited in the show windows on State street. To his uncured eyes these $300.00 Hudson Seal coats looked like they had been sired by black cats.

"Black cats," soliloquized the cow man, "are plentiful and numerous in the Lone Star state. They are light cats and light sleepers. Neither coyotes, skunks or ticks assail them. They are immune to drouths, worms and blizzards. Moreover, cats have nine lives. So even if a cat should die once she has still eight lives left for the perpetuation of the species. There is billions in cats. No for Texas and a cat ranch."

After returning the cow man adopted two black tom cats and ten black lady cats, each composed of nine lives. When harvest time arrived the ranch was blessed with 450 black kittens, for each life had given birth to five lives. On account of the long seasons and the warm nights that prevail in Texas, coupled with the law of geometric progression, the vicinity was soon covered with black cats.

But now arose a problem which our cow man had not contemplated. These myriads of cats had to eat. The buffalo grass, tumble weeds and dog weeds of Texas were not in harmony with their interior furnishings. They even scorned milk weeds. In other words, the cats were starving. The Hudson Seal crop was going glimmering. In the dilemma the cow man got himself to Galveston whence he returned with a consignment of wharf rats, a species of rodents which learned multiplication from the sands on the sea. Wharf rats have fewer lives but raise bigger and more frequent crops than cats. Thus the equilibrium was preserved between rats and cats. Soon the cow man had all the rats required for the feeding of his cats. The problem of feeding the rats was solved by feeding the carcasses of the cats to the rats after the Hudson Seal had been carefully peeled off of them.

There is no telling how many billions of dollars our Texas rancher made out of his perpetual motion rat-cat establishment. It may suffice, however, to state that the fame of his scheme spread far and wide and was adopted by every chamber of commerce and employers' association in the land of the free.

In transplanting the rat-cat scheme to industrial fields the economist of rotary clubs employed the following formula:

Deplete farm prices in the country. Quadruple prices of farm products in cities. High cost of living in cities increases cost of goods sold to farmers. It also increases strikes. Tell farmers strike increased cost of goods. Tell wage workers high farm products are responsible for the high cost of living. Tell bankrupt farmers to scab on strikers. Tell city rebels to go back to the soil and scab on farmers. Feed deserted farms with starving wage workers. Feed industry with pauperized farmers. Starving wage workers make docile farmers. Pauperized farmers make docile wage slaves. Poor low wages and low farm prices in pot, add big profits and high priced goods. Mix high cost of living with strikes, strike breakers and starvation incomes, then stir until done brown.

The above formula may not appear quite clear to the reader. To tell the truth it does not seem quite clear to the writer, either. But, the result is clear enough.

According to a recent report of the department of agriculture two million farmers left the farms in 1922 to seek employment in industry. Now couple the exodus of the dirt farmer with the consumption of food in cities. Here are the facts furnished by the federal department of labor:

Per capita consumption of food by families with an average income of $1,430.00:

	1920	1922
Meat, lbs.	170.9	149.7
Milk, quarts.	182	80.2
Flour, lbs.	317	113.
Butter, lbs.	14.5	13.2
Eggs, doz.	14.1	6.4
Potatoes, lbs.	225	141

Of course, increased wages in industry would increase consumption of food which, in turn, would increase farm prices in the country. However, the Wall Street Journal commenting on the campaign of the Farmers' National Council to increase the consumption of food, states, that, "further consumption of food would merely mean greater waste and more dyspepsy." Who in the hell wants dyspepsy? Moreover, how in the sam hill will the advertisement of "eat more" give people the money to buy more?

After re-reading the above fling in contemporary economics, the author has decided to move to Texas and start a cat ranch. Feeding cats to rats and rats to cats in the pursuit of life, liberty, happiness and Hudson Seal seems to be much more profitable than educating farmers and wage workers to realization of their common interests. Farewell farmers, farewell wage slaves. Auf Wiedersehen. Au Revoir until we meet again—in the bug house. The world's gone nutty. So have we. Shake.—Oscar Ameringer in The Illinois Miner.

Editor Antioch News

Dear Sir:

In your issue of May 31, 1923, under headlines, "Master Powerless to Issue Injunction," your paper is misleading when you say Bell vs. Marketing Company. I am asking for correction of this statement for that reason.

General Demurrer

The demurrer of Arthur Bell, defendant to bill of complaint of Milk Producers Marketing Company, complainant.

Quoting from objections filed:

Section II—That the complainant milk producers marketing company is not by its charter empowered to exist as a corporation for a definite term of years, nor is it empowered to exist perpetually. Wherefore, the said Milk Producers Marketing Company has no existence as a corporation and is without capacity to engage in any business or act as a corporation or institute suits as a party complainant.

Section X—That the relief prayed for in that it compels physical labor by the defendant for a term of years is in contravention to the guarantees of the bill of rights or constitution of the state of Illinois and the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States.

XVIII—That the allegations of the bill show that a definite sum therein set forth, to wit: $119.25, is the sole extent of complainants damage. Wherefore the bill fails to state a cause for equitable relief.

Section XX—That the provision of the contract set forth in the bill, wherein $500 was fixed as the amount of the solicitors fees of the Milk Producers Marketing Company is a penalty and is an attempted invasion of the discretion of courts of equity over the allowance of solicitors fees.

Section XXIII—That the allegations of the bill show that the Milk Producers Marketing Company is attempting to invoke the aid of a court of equity to enable it to continue in a course of legal violation by operating an unauthorized business.

As the bill of objections are quite lengthy I have quoted but a few of them. This case seemed to attract wide attention by the farmers and many traveled many miles to hear the outcome. When the case was

It must be great
To be a tree
And look up at God
All thru the day.
If in dendroid shapes
We were to be,
We could justify our vanity,
By robing in verdant display.

There's something majestic

Something worthy of reverence and awe,
Which shows the work of the Master.
The thing which inspires,
Its fine symmetry,
Cannot be produced by man,
But only by God, its creator.

If the Marketing Company is without charter power to operate, who is at fault. That can't be charged up against the poor farmer. Let's hope not at least. If without charter power it has no existence. Ask what is the validity of the contract if our marketing company has lost its self in the shuffle and is without power to act legally, let's try something else.

An Ordinance

AN ORDINANCE REGULATING THE USE OF AUTOMOBILES OR OTHER MOTOR VEHICLES AND PROVIDING FOR THE LICENSING THEREOF IN THE VILLAGE OF ANTIOCH, COUNTY OF LAKE AND STATE OF ILLINOIS.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF ANTIOCH, COUNTY OF LAKE AND STATE OF ILLINOIS:

Section 1: No person, firm or corporation shall use, operate, drive or propel any automobile motor vehicle or other motor vehicle on any street, alley or public way in the Village of Antioch with the cutoff open while the motor in such vehicle is being operated or shall discontinue the use of the muffler on any motor in any such motor vehicle while the same is being operated.

Section 2: Each and every motor-cycle used, operated, driven, or propelled upon any street or other public way in this village after dusk and before dawn shall have displayed a light on the rear and a light on the front thereof and every other motor vehicle used, operated, driven or propelled upon any street or other public way in this Village after dusk and before dawn shall have displayed a light on the rear thereof and at least two lights on the front and all of such lights as herein provided shall be in a conspicuous position on such motor vehicle.

Section 3: Anyone operating a motor vehicle on any street or public way in said Village desiring to turn such motor vehicle so as to propel the same in the opposite direction along said street or public way shall make such turn only at a street intersection.

Section 4: The parking of all automobiles or motor vehicles on any street or public way in said Village shall be according to the following rules and regulations:

All such motor vehicles shall be parked on the right hand side of the street and with right hand side of the motor vehicle next to the curb or edge of said street and immediately adjacent thereto, subject, however, as hereinafter provided.

All motor vehicles which shall be parked in Main Street in said Village between the north line of Johnson Street (Park Avenue) and the north line of Orchard Street and on Lake Street (Channel Lake Road) in said Village between Main Street and the west line of Victoria Street shall be parked at the edge of the curb of such streets so that the right hand side of such motor vehicles shall be toward such edge or curb of said street and at an angle as nearly as possible with the curb or edge of such street of thirty-five degrees. The space allotted for the parking of motor vehicles on said portions of Main Street and Lake Street may be marked with paint with lines sufficiently far enough apart to accommodate in width motor vehicles using such parking space and with such lines so marked, and designated on said portions of said streets with paint or otherwise so that said lines shall be at an angle of thirty-five degrees with the edge or curb of said streets and so as to accommodate the parking of such motor vehicles as is herein provided, that the same be parked on such portions of such streets. Whenever lines indicating the space allotted for parking such motor vehicles shall be provided on such pavement or streets motor vehicles using such parking space shall be parked between the lines allotted for that purpose headed toward the curb and as near as may be to the same and with the right hand side at an angle of thirty-five degrees with the curb of the street. In all other streets or portions of streets in the said Village motor vehicles shall be parked along the edge or curb of the street on the right hand side thereof and with the motor vehicle faced or headed in the direction the said motor vehicle was being propelled. No motor vehicle shall be parked within eight feet of a crosswalk, alley, intersecting street or fire hydrant. The parking of all motor vehicles shall be under the direction and control of the President and Board of Trustees and officers appointed by the same for the purpose of regulating the traffic.

Section 5: No motor in any motor vehicle shall be operated on any street or public way in said Village except during the time the same shall be under the immediate control of some person in charge thereof and no motor vehicle shall be left standing in any street or public way in said Village with the motor operating therein unless under the immediate control of some person in charge thereof.

Section 6: No metal tired vehicle including tractors, motor trucks, traction engines and other similar vehicles shall be operated over any pavement or improved street in said Village if such vehicle has on the periphery on any of the road wheels any block, stud, flange, cleat, ridge, bolt, lug or any projection of metal or wood which projects radially beyond the tread or traffic surface of the tire except that this prohibition shall not apply to tractors or traction engines equipped with what is known as Caterpillar tractors, when such caterpillar does not contain any projections of any kind likely to injure the surface of the road.

Section 7: It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation residing within said Village or having its headquarters for the transaction of its business within said Village to use or cause or permit any of its agents or employees to use any motor vehicle upon the streets, alleys or public ways of said Village unless such motor vehicle be first licensed as herein provided.

Section 8: Any person, firm or corporation desiring such license for any such motor vehicle shall file an application with the Village Clerk upon a form provided for that purpose setting forth the name and address of the applicant, a description of the motor vehicle, the place where such motor vehicle is to be kept when not in use, the number and kind of other motor vehicles if any kept by such applicant and such other information as may be prescribed. The Village Clerk shall issue license upon such application in accordance with the terms of this ordinance, which license shall be good until the expiration thereof. Such license fees shall be paid annually to the Village Clerk for such Motor Vehicles as hereinafter provided.

Section 9: For the purposes of this ordinance Motor Vehicles shall be classified and license fees shall be as follows:

Those Motor Vehicles which are designated and used for the carrying of not more than seven persons.

Motor vehicles of thirty-five horse power or less$5.00
Motor vehicles of more than thirty-five horse power$8.00

Those motor vehicles which are designated and used for pulling or carrying freight and also those motor vehicles or motor cars which are designated and used for the carrying of more than seven persons.

Motor vehicles having a gross weight of five thousand pounds and less including the weight of the motor vehicle and maximum load$5.00

Motor vehicles having a gross weight of more than five thousand pounds and not more than twelve thousand pounds including the weight of the motor vehicles and maximum load$8.00

Motor vehicles having a gross weight of more than twelve thousand pounds and not more than fifteen thousand pounds, including the weight of the vehicle and maximum load$12.00

Motor Coaches and Motor Buses$12.00

Motor vehicles having a gross weight of more than fifteen thousand pounds, including weight of motor vehicle and maximum load$15.00

All such licenses shall expire on the 30th day of April following the date of issue and when issued for a period of less than one year the fee to be paid for the unexpired license period shall be the proportionate part of the annual rate fixed hereinafter but no fee shall be less than one-fourth of the annual rate.

No license shall be issued for less than one year except in cases where the licensee comes into possession of the vehicle after the end of the first quarter of the license year, that is to say after August 1st of each year. All revenue derived from such license fees except the actual costs of collection and disbursement thereof shall be kept in a separate fund and used for paying the costs and expenses of improving, repairing or maintaining the streets and other public roadways of said village.

Section 10: Upon the issuance of licenses provided for herein the Village Clerk shall in the discretion of the President and Board of Trustees, deliver to the applicant a metal plate bearing the license number, the year for which the license is issued and such other designation as shall be provided, and when such license plate shall be so delivered the licensee shall display such plate at all times upon the front of any motor vehicles where it can be readily seen and it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to use or cause or permit any use of any motor vehicle on the streets of the Village of Antioch unless this ordinance has been first complied with. And it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to use or permit to be used any such license plate on any vehicle other than the one specified in said application.

Section 11: Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be fined not less than five dollars ($5.00) nor more than two hundred dollars ($200.00) for each and every offense and each and every violation shall constitute a separate and distinct offense and each day any motor vehicle is used in violation of this ordinance shall constitute a separate and distinct offense.

Section 12: This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication for ten days as is provided by law. Motor vehicles shall be licensed in accordance with this ordinance beginning on the date when this ordinance becomes effective by its passage, approval and publication as aforesaid and the license fees for the remainder of the year after this ordinance becomes so effective expiring April 30, 1924, shall be the proportionate part of such license fees as is herein provided for the portion of such year beginning with the date that this ordinance becomes effective and ending April 30, 1924.

Section 13: All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Passed May 31, 1923.
Approved May 31, 1923.
Published June 7, 1923.

BRISTOL

Word was received here Thursday of the sudden and unexpected death of Clarence H. Cass of Ravenswood, Ill., on May 30th, at Lake View hospital. Death was caused by infection from a boil on the back of his neck.

Clarence H. Cass was born to Salem township, near Liberty Corners, July 25, 1880. The greater part of his life was spent on the farm where he was born until he grew to manhood. He enlisted in the World War in the dental reserve corps, held the rank of first lieutenant, and has continued dental work upon his return to Chicago. He is survived by a wife and daughter, aged four, and brother, Norvall Cass of Kaukauna, Wis. The funeral services were held last Friday afternoon at Ravenswood, Ill. Interment at Rose Hill cemetery. This was the fourth death in the Cass family inside of the last three months, his father and mother having recently passed away at their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Castle, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Pike, all of Chicago, Sunday at the home of their uncle Mr. Ed Pike.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gethen attended the golden jubilee anniversary of Wesley chapel Sunday.

The ladies aid will meet with Mrs. John Jones on Thursday of this week.

Mrs. Van Patten (nurse) visited her mother in Antioch last Friday.

Mr. Al Haertell and brother-in-law motored to Stevens Point Saturday and returned Monday, accompanied by Mrs. Haertell and children, who have been spending several weeks at the home of her parents at that place.

DODGING NEW FACTORIES

The head that appears above is intended merely to attract your attention. It does not properly outline this article, which would carry a more appropriate title if it said, "What Should Constitute the Real Activities of the Local Klwanis Club or Chamber of Commerce." What we mean is that small towns that spend much energy on securing new factories would be far better if they concentrated upon making better farms around them.

The idea is not our, originally, but is a part of the speech of Paul Stephens, referred to in a preceding editorial. Mr. Stephens goes into more detail in his address than we will here, but we agree thoroughly with him where he says, "the average value of a farm in Illinois is $28,000. How many of your local business men are worth that amount? And yet you give them practically all the space in your new columns!" or words to that effect.

He goes on to say that the merchant exist for no other reason than to sell goods to the farmers, and unless the latter are brought to higher production and greater prosperity the town itself will not be prosperous. His advice is to drop most of the activities that chambers of commerce and similar bodies are engaged in to bring in new factories and to concentrate their efforts on getting a higher price for their products.

He also advocates aiding them to introduce high-bred stock and advertise them to other communities. He cites many cases where communities have become nationally known through adopting better methods and urges his readers to father such movements. He truly says an editor is the maker of history; his reporters are the chroniclers.

His main thought—to dodge new factories for a time and go after better agricultural methods in the community—looks like a splendid idea.

PUBLIC SERVICE CO. HAS INCREASE IN BUSINESS

In the period between January 1 and April 14, 1923, the total new contracted electric service business of the Public Service Company expressed in terms of horse power exceeded that of the same time in 1922 by a handsome margin. It ran ahead of the same three months in 1921.

In the first fifteen weeks of 1923 the number of houses wired in the territory of the Company exceeded by 60 per cent the number equipped in the same time in 1922. The total was four times as many as were wired in the same period in 1921. A feature of the business is that many house owners are paying cash for the work.

The "good business" story of electric power and housewiring is repeated in the Retail Merchandise Sales Department. Sales are largely in excess of the first three months of 1922. As usual, labor-saving devices—vacuum cleaners, washers and irons—lead the list of articles distributed though it includes also many of the smaller devices.

TRUTH IN ADV.

Summer Girl (angrily): "You advertised that you had no mosquitoes and I was almost eaten up by them last night."

Hotel Manager: "We told the truth, miss. I looked all them over carefully, and there ain't a one that belongs to us."

DOMESTIC

"For Heaven's sake, John, why are you spanking the baby? What has he done?"

"Nothing as far as I know, Mary, but I have to do something to keep him reminded of who I am around here."

There will be children's day exercises at the M. E. Church next Sunday evening at 7:30. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Hanson and Mrs. T. Hanson of Kenosha were guests of Marie Materna Decoration day.

The members of the Sunday school of the M. E. Church gave a party in honor of Mrs. Durkee and the Misses Porter and Jamison on Saturday evening. The evening was passed pleasantly in playing games and light refreshments were served.

Helen Stoxen left for DeKalb normal for summer school Sunday. She was accompanied to DeKalb by Edna Breukman, Mrs. N. Strupe and Lloyd Stown. Mrs. Strupe remained at Union for a visit with relatives.

A. C. Stoxen was out from Chicago over the week end.

Miss E. Patterson, Mrs. C. Jones and Alvin Jones of Burlington called on Mr. and Mrs. G. Faulkner Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Stoxen and family were at Wauconda for Decoration day. Ruth Morgan and Howard Zorh of Stoughton and Madison arrived Monday. Miss Morgan has just completed her school term at Stoughton high school, where she has been reengaged for the coming year as head of the French department.

Tuesday, the Misses Ruth and Al-teen Morgan and Howard Zorh motored to Madison in the new Jewett Sedan recently purchased by Mrs. C. Morgan to bring back Mrs. Klare and her son Richard Klare. The many friends of Richard in this vicinity will be pleased to learn that he has practically recovered from his recent very serious illness.

Principal and Mrs. R. S. Hlenfeldt spent Saturday shopping in Chicago.

Mrs. R. S. Hlenfeldt entertained at a miscellaneous shower for Miss Porter on Tuesday evening. Miss Porter, who is soon to marry Mr. Service of Chicago was the recipient of many lovely and useful gifts. Interesting games had been arranged to entertain the guests and the bride to be discovered each gift by tracing its hiding place according to directions in little verse covered hearts. Refreshments were served and the guests departed at a late hour after a very merry evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Wheeler of Evanston motored up for Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Lewis.

J. A. Schmelke met with a bad accident when the lock on his steering gear became loosened and he lost control of his car while driving near Salem Friday. The car overturned in a ditch and was badly damaged. Mr. Schmelke was very fortunate in escaping with a few bruises.

There will be English services at the Ev. Lutheran church at 7:30 next Sunday evening.

Funeral services for Mrs. Goyke of Silver Lake were held at the Ev. Lutheran church at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon with Rev. S. Jedele officiating. Burial was in the family plot at the Wilmot cemetery.

The U. P. H. S. band will give a concert and dance at the Wilmot gymnasium next Tuesday evening, June 5th. The money raised at this concert and dance is to be used to help defray the expenses of the band when they are at Two Rivers, Wis., for the state band tournament next week.

The children belonging to the two bands at the high school have been working very hard for months to prepare for this contest and deserve to be helped in every way. The trip is to be made in ten cars and about forty children and ten grown ups are expected to leave here Thursday noon, June 14th for Two Rivers.

About 15 bands are expected to enter the tournament. These bands are divided into three classes. Class A will be bands organized over two years. Class B, all bands under two years of organization and this is the class the Wilmot bands are entered in.

A third class is the juvenile bands. All members of this class must be under 21 and not professionals. Friday night, June 15th all the bands entered in the tournament are to play together on the street of Two Rivers. Both bands from Wilmot will be entered in the marching contest.

The Wilmot bands have been under the very able direction of Prof. Clarence Wright ever since their organization. Prof. Wright entered the Wilmot band at the state tournament last year at Kibbourn and was successful in winning a place worthy of recognition for a band so shortly organized. It is hoped the general public will attend the band concert on Tuesday evening and give the band members and their director their support.

The commencement exercises of the class of 1923 were held at the U. P. H. S. gymnasium Wednesday night of this week. The stage was beautifully decorated with natural flowers and a most interesting program was given. The presentation of the class members, Arthur W. Flegel,

Mary A. Kerwin, Doris L. Ganzila, C. Wesley Oryls, Myrtle E. Salvin, P. Loretta Peacock, Laura S. Stoxen, John A. Kerwin, Donald F. Herrick and Margaret S. Madden were the opening number. The senior class then gave their class song, "The Graduation Farewell." Supt. Paul G. Keller of Waukegan gave the evening's address and chose for his subject an appropriate topic, "The Value of Youth." Supt. Keller is a very able speaker and had a most attentive audience throughout his discourse.

Arthur Flegel read the class will and his disposition of his class mates' personal effects brought many a laugh.

The school glee club sang "Italia." This class prophecy was given by Mary Kerwin and her cleverly worded prophecies for each classmates future were very interesting.

Principal R. S. Hlenfeldt presented the graduates their diplomas and gave them a short address in which he congratulated them on completing their high school course and wished them all success in their future undertakings.

The evening's program closed with a piano selection, "The Hungarian Concert Polka" which was interpreted very beautifully by Mrs. R. S. Hlenfeldt.

The public is cordially invited to attend a highly educational program at the U. P. H. S. gymnasium next Friday evening, June 8th. The pupils of the domestic science department, under the direction of their teacher, Miss Jamison, will put on a style show, exhibiting many of the articles of clothing they made during the past year. The manual training exhibit is to be held the same evening and the articles displayed from this department are always worth a special visit. Aside from the two exhibits there will be a short business meeting of the P. T. A. and an oratorical contest between members of the different high school classes.

The members of the P. T. A., the parents of all the pupils enrolled and all people interested in public education will be welcomed by the faculty on this evening. The teachers of the school are spending much time in preparation for this evening and the excellent work accomplished during the last year is well worth the exhibiting.

The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary played to a very attentive and appreciative audience on last Wednesday night at the local gymnasium. The students who took part all deserve special mention, particularly Doris Ganzila, who very ably took the part of Aunt Mary; Stanley Stoxen, who as Jack, the nephew always in scrapes; Mary Kerwin, who aptly took the part of Granice the maid, and Laura Stoxen, Aunt Mary's Lucinda. Melvin Dafton, the butler, was sure of a laugh upon appearance.

Appropriate readings and musical selections were given between acts. The play was given under the direction of Miss Porter of the English department of the high school and was a very appropriate selection for the community in which it was given. The characters were all good and showed much intensive training.
